

Join the Free Spirit Advisory Council

Free Spirit Publishing, the leading publisher of learning tools that support young people's social-emotional health and educational needs, seeks early childhood and K–12 Teachers, Administrators, Librarians, Counselors, and Social Workers to join its advisory council. In order to make our books and other products even more beneficial for children and teens, the advisory council provides valuable feedback on things like content, text, and art and helps us identify what educators need to support the kids they serve.

Council member responsibilities include:

- a one-year commitment
- timely responses to occasional brief queries sent electronically (up to three a month)
- timely responses to surveys
- confidentiality

In addition, there may be opportunities to test products with students.

Council members must have access to the Internet and email and be able to receive and open PDFs. Infrequently, we may contact members by telephone.

Members who satisfactorily complete their year of service (provide responses to at least 75% of our queries) will receive three Free Spirit resources of their choice as our thanks for their contribution. Some members may be asked to serve again.

If you're interested, please fill out and submit an application. Applications are available on our website, www.freespirit.com/advisory-boards. The application process is ongoing; applications are reviewed triannually. Successful applicants will be contacted.

Contact Terri DesLaurier, deslaurier@freespirit.com, with questions.